Editor's Column

The much tossed around and abused Carmel Youth Center budget took another trip through the mails this week, from Carmel Unified School District Superintendent's office to Carmel City Hall. This is a return trip.

The district attorney ruled that unless the city council asks the school board for the $5,000 the youth center wants from the board, the school board can't give it. The youth center is a private corporation; the city council is a public body and may make requests for money for the youth center and may receive it and pass it on to the youth center. But the city council has to ask for it. At their last meeting they merely passed the budget on to the school board without comment.

This matter will come before the council again Wednesday. Let us hope the councilmen will leave off bickering, politicking, behaving in a manner that they would criticize in members of the youth center, and simply ask for the money. There is good reason to believe the school board will give it to the city for the kids. They always have. The amount, $5,000 is little enough when you consider the kids raise $6,000 through door to door solicitation and the rest of their $17,000 budget through their food concessions at the Forest Theater, and at events on the Del Monte Properties Golf Courses.

If the council can't bring themselves to make a simple request, which every other council has made with enthusiasm since the founding of the youth center, then they are badly serving the property owners of Carmel, who will be called upon to make up the $6,000 through additional donations. Carmel people will do what needs to be done for the youth center but they have a right to be annoyed that out of the $48,000 school recreation fund, a third of which Carmel taxpayers provide through a 10 cent recreation tax, nothing should go to the Youth Center which is Carmel's number one recreation activity. —W. Ondrejka Resigns To Accept Post With Buffalo Philharmonic

Ronald Ondrejka, who for the past year has served as resident conductor and music director of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, has been awarded the post of assistant conductor of Buffalo, New York, Philharmonic. The position, as assistant to Joseph Kripps, was one sought by the top young conductors throughout the country.

In order to enable Ondrejka to accept this outstanding opportunity, the board of directors of the Monterey County Symphony Association voted to release him from

Artist Roy Hamlin Does 15th Century Surrealism In Manner Of Bosch

By RAYLYN PENNEY

Whatever happened to Surrealism? Some art critics say it has gone to the movies, appears here and there in stage design. Some say it has been absorbed in the other "isms" of painting.

Roy Ami Hamlin, the Peninsula's "traditional surrealist," says nothing at all about this. But he goes on painting with an ingenuity that lays bare the world of dreams, tears at the heart and occasionally irritates the far corners of the mind. In the way of Hans Arp and Joan Mora. Or as Hamlin himself suggests, after the footsteps of Hieronymus Bosch.

A painter all his life—he was reared in the Santa Clara Valley after his birth some 36 years ago—Roy has in recent years brought his remarkable imagination to bear on projects in the field of design.

In connection with his business as a dealer in antiques and accessories, he designs the interiors and exteriors of homes, has many startling and beautiful accomplishments in this line to his credit in the area, including his own home in Pacific Grove. But that is another story.

As a painter he drew on fantasy for subject matter, even as a child penning figures on paper instead of cleaving to more academic interests.

After naval service in the South Pacific during World War II, Roy surrendered to his original calling, and perhaps also to the influence of his all-French ancestry, and went about studying art, first at the Jean Turner School in San Francisco, and later at the Academie de la Grande Chaumiere and the Beaux Arts in Paris.

To excel at Surrealism implies strength in draughtsmanship, a carefully acquired knowledge of drawing. And this Roy Hamlin has. The masters of the past he admires most and whose work influenced him in the years he

Youth Center Passes Halfway Point In Current Fund Drive

Carmel Youth Center members passed the halfway mark this week in their $6,000 fund raising campaign. Total donations now amount to $3,200 with another week to go before the drive ends with a community open house party September 8.

The open house program, free to all residents of this area, will present the Fort Ord Soldiers' Chorus, a variety program by center members and dancing to Herb Miller's Band.

Each year the teenage recreation center is opened to the public for the community celebration. This year they hope to be able to announce at the party that they have raised sufficient funds to operate the center for another year. In addition, they sell food at all golf tournaments in Pebble Beach, clean up the Laguna Seca sports car track and grounds following races, and sell refreshments at the Forest Theater Sunday afternoons in order to increase their funds. Youth Center memberships also help pay expenses.

All donations are tax deductible and receipts for this purpose are given to all persons helping financially, according to Jack Giles, center director.

Planners Refuse Art Center Permit In Residence Dist.

A police department report stating that traffic conditions would be hazardous, particularly for Woods School pupils, was an important consideration, yesterday afternoon, when the Carmel Planning Commission denied a request of the American Federation of Arts to operate the former Forest Hill School in the residence zone as the local AFA chapter headquarters.

According to the police report, prepared by Lieutenant William H. Ellis, since narrow streets service this section of the residence district, any increase in the normal flow of traffic would be a hazard and disturbance to pedestrians and residents of the immediate area.

Only limited offstreet parking was provided on the site plan for the AFA headquarters, the report continued. First Avenue, approach to the site, offers no shoulder area adequate for increased parking. Public parking on the streets surrounding the site would congest the flow of traffic.

Thirdly, the report pointed out the combination of possible increased traffic and parking in the proposed AFA headqarters area "raises considerable concern" for the safety of the many small children who walk along First Avenue, a main route to Woods School. Also, the normal traffic in this area is increased during school sessions by parents driving children to and from school.

In conclusion, the report indicated that the present manpower of the police force offers no feasible means by which effective and safe control of additional traffic in the area could be arranged.

After considering the traffic conditions in the proposed AFA headquarters area, commissioners denied the permit on the grounds that the use would adversely affect the zoning plan of the city and the character of the neighborhood; there was no hardship cir-

Don't forget to go to school Tuesday morning.

To the gentleman who asked us why the citizens didn't get busy to find some way of preserving the beautiful slopes on the Fish Ranch which one sees on the left as, headed south, one crosses Carmel River Bridge:

The citizens did what they could some time ago. They persuaded the county supervisors to appoint an open space committee to wangle scenic easements, and work for state legislation that will ease the tax burdens on such land.

County Planning Commissioner Keith Evans and Carmel City Councilman Francis Whitaker are the local members of the open space committee which holds its next meeting in Salinas, 2:00 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon.

Evans and Whitaker told us this week that petitions will soon be circulating for an initiative amendment to go on the next state election ballot. The amendment will modify the present state law which assesses farming land on its development potential when it is in the vicinity of already developed property instead of on its present agricultural use. This can boost taxes to a point where the owner can no longer afford to use his land for grazing, but is forced to subdivide it for residence or commercial use.

Like a bunch of kids learning they won't have to go to school today because teacher was suddenly called out of town (it could happen when we went to school) city councilmen and city officials said "Hurray" or the equivalent when City Clerk Larry Rose phoned them yesterday afternoon and told them that the public hearings scheduled for last night couldn't be held.

His office had failed to send out notices and order legal publication, and pleasure among the councilmen and press was divided between unexpected relief from duty and the comforting realization that even so competently staffed and perfectly run institution as the city clerk's office could slip up. Perfection is uncomfortable, not to say inhuman.

Pine Cone feels there should be some sort of memorial to this great occasion. It's never happened before and you can be sure it will never happen again.

At its September 6 meeting, the city council will again set a time for public hearing on: incorporating planning commission's proposed

All Saints' Appeal Planners' "No" To Parochial School

The Reverend David Hill, Rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church, on Friday filed at city hall a formal appeal to the city council " for a reversal of the city planning commission's decision denying the parish permission to use its facilities for a day school."

Since All Saints is located in the residence district, it is necessary to obtain a use permit to operate a school on church property. After a public hearing, the planning commission denied the request on August 16.

Planning commission's stated reasons for the denial: A school at that location would "adversely affect the general zoning plan of the city, and adversely affect the neighborhood." Also: "No specific need for this school in the community has been proven," and "granting of the permit may set a precedent for other schools in the residence area."

At its September 6 meeting, the city council will set a date for a public hearing on the appeal.

BARBECUE FOR PONY AND LITTLE LEAGUERS THIS SUN.

The Annual Awards Barbecue of the Carmel Little League will take on another customer this year when the Pony League players and boosters join the Little League for this Sunday's get-together at the Monterey Fairgrounds. In addition to the graduation certificates which are presented to all players who have used up their eligibility, trophies will be awarded to the winning teams in the Little League, Farm League, and Pony League.

According to the barbecue experts who are in charge of turning out the chicken, eating time starts at 1:00 o'clock and the awards program is slated for about 2:30. Bargain rates prevail for Sunday's chicken dinner with adults paying $1.50 and the kids getting by for .75c. Barbecue tickets may be purchased from any of the team managers and will be available at the Fairgrounds.

Jack Miller's San Carlos Realty, 1961 Little League Champions, will take home the perpetual championship trophy donated by the House That Jack Built, and Lee McGuckin's Village Inn takes possession of the Sparolini Distributing Company trophy which goes to the winner of the Farm League. Bob Baugh's Sport Shop Cardinals will be honored as 1961 Pony League Champs.

A galaxy of Little League performers will pick up their graduation certificates with seven old-timers saying good-bye to the San Carlos Realty, seven leaving Boy's Town, Wilder & Jones losing five, Sport Shop graduating three, and Turner & McEldowney and Pilot Market each losing one. With the success of the Pony League assured by this year's fine season, Carmel baseball fans will have a chance to see all the Little League graduates in action with Pony League teams next season.

LITTLE LEAGUE ELECTIONS SET FOR SEPTEMBER 11

President Van King has called an 8:00 o'clock meeting for the Carmel Little League on September 11 at the Carmel High School cafeteria. This meeting is for the purpose of electing a Board of Directors and officers for the 1961 season.

Anyone who has contributed a dollar or more to the Little League program is eligible to attend the meeting and participate in the voting for the officers and directors. Persons wishing to become members of the Little League Association may do so at the September 11 meeting.

All the money from membership fees is placed in the Carmel Little League general fund and is used to help defray the expenses of the league. Carmel's Little League program embraces six regular Little League teams, and seven Farm League teams.

CARMEL YOUTH CENTER WINS SOFTBALL TITLE

Manager Jack Giles guided his Carmel Youth Center softball team to the socko championship of the Monterey Recreation League Monday night as the Carmel lads clipped the Pacific Grove Rec Club, 17 to 9, to wrap up the C-division title. On Tuesday night, the Youth Center sluggers took on the Monterey Teachers, champions of the B-league, and clipped them, 16 to 9, to pick up additional honors for the village fun spot. League officials are so smitten with the prowess of the YC team that they have arranged for the youngsters to play the winner of the Monterey A-league.

Led by Ted Leidig, a diminutive slugger who is the league's batting champion, the Youth Center roared through a ten-game schedule against the Junior Optimists, the Pacific Grove Rec Club, and the Monterey DeMolay with only one loss. Other Carmel athletes taking their cuts for the YC are Bill Coleman, Bud Cunningham, Mike Draper, Scott Forbes, Bob Larson, Dan Holman, Rick Baldwin, Ron Hinchcliff, Jack Hinchcliff, Gary Mumford, Pete Hansen, and Alan Hagar.

CCAL GRIDDERS GO TO WORK

It was back to fundamentals and conditioning for the 13 Coast Counties Athletic League football squads last Monday afternoon as the first practice of the 1961 season unfolded at all the high schools.

In the A-league (Salinas, North Salinas, Monterey, Watsonville, and Santa Cruz), the objective on all the practice fields was to dethrone Monterey and Watsonville as co-champs and have a new school run up the title flag. In the B-league (Carmel, King City, Pacific Grove, Live Oak, Gonzales, Hollister, Gilroy, and San Lorenzo), sights were set on perennial champion Carmel which has been the league kingpin for the last four years.

Missing from this year's football scene will be the colorful CCAL Jamboree which usually starts the season. This spectacular grid pageant was junked by the CCAL Board of Managers when some of the school preferred to play an extra game instead of participating in the Jamboree. The Carmel High rooting section is especially unhappy to see the Jamboree discontinued since it is a two-time champion of the pageant's cheering sections. In place of the CCAL Jamboree, the A-league will put on its own Jamboree on Friday, September 15, at the Salinas High Stadium. In the B-league, all the schools, except Carmel and Pacific Grove, will add a practice game to their schedules on the cumstance for further consideration. Commissioners Florence Josselyn, Fred Keeble, J. B. Martin, Hugh Smith, George Willox and Chairman Herbert Blanks voted against allowing the use permit for the AFA headquarters. Commissioner Dorothy von Meier abstained from voting because of particular interest in the AFA organization.

Commissioners Hugh Smith said, "We live in a residential community, also an art community, and the two exist compatibly but should not infringe on one another. The need to impose art on the residence section is unwarranted. This endeavor (AFA) could exist outside the city where there would be less pressure."

Mrs. Josselyn remarked, "To be against art is to be eternally damned but we are not against art; we are responsible to the citizenry."

Commissioner Keeble, although favoring the AFA development, remarked that though the present plans of the organization indicated no enlargement of use or premises, the planning commission had found from experience that although a use was desirable when a permit was granted, later the same use through growth became "a problem."

Mr. Willox agreed with Mr. Keeble and added that expanding activities of the local AFA chapter meant eventually "too big an organization" to operate in the residence zone where a traffic danger for children already exists.

The report of the building inspector and fire chief stated that although the former Forest Hill School premises were substandard in many respects, according to the building code, these lacks could be remedied and gave, in detail, what action the AFA would be required to make before their headquarters could contain an art library, assembly room and classrooms.

City Clerk Larry Rose told commissioners 11 communications, received from residents of the neighborhood under discussion, unqualifiedly favored the AFA headquarters; four gave qualified approval; one objected.

Victor Velissaratos and Edgar Bissantz, AFA chapter directors, asked following the denial if the organization planned to appeal the planning commission decision to the city council, had no comment.

One More Day To Apply For Concert Master's Chair

Applications for the vacant position of concert master for the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra will be accepted until tomorrow.

Responsibilities of the concert master are pre-season preparation in regard to bowings, string section rehearsals, orchestral tunings, standing-in for the conductor during rehearsals and serving as a member of the orchestra committee. The concert master and conductor also share the responsibility of auditioning and seating new orchestra members.

All candidates, according to Conductor Ronald Ondrejka, must be familiar with standard orchestral repertoire and be prepared to audition with a representative selection. Each participant is asked to provide an accompanist. Mr. Ondrejka may be reached by telephoning MA 4-8046, 4:00 - 6:00 o'clock.

Mission Ranch Zoning Review Set For Tuesday Morning

Tuesday morning at 11:00 o'clock the county board of supervisors will review the county planning commission's denial of the Mission Ranch's application for rezoning from R-1 (residence) to R-3 (controlled multiple dwelling) use of the seven-acre Mission Ranch property. It is now in non-conforming use as restaurant, bar and recreation hall.

In view of the protest of 90 percent of the neighboring residents against any change in the Mission Ranch's present non-conforming use, the planning commission denied the application on July 25, but zoning decisions of the planning commission are automatically reviewed by the supervisors.

The Residents Committee is asking the neighbors to attend the review Tuesday in Salinas to urge the supervisors to uphold the planning commission's decision.

Art On The Peninsula—

A show of 16 watercolors of Peninsula scenes by Art Riley opens on Labor Day at the Pacific Grove Museum and will be exhibited free to the public through September 24, daily except Mondays, from 10:00 o'clock in the morning until 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Two years ago Art Riley bought a home in Pacific Grove. He recently returned to painting after 20 years as a professional photographer for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Disney Studios, and national magazines.

He was born in Boston, Massachusetts, but came to live in California at an early age. He studied at the Los Angeles Art Center and water color technique with Barse Miller, became a member of the California Water Color Society and exhibited at the Los Angeles County Museum in the mid-thirties, then turned to photography.

Since 1959, his transparent watercolors, exhibited in 1960 at the Monterey County fair where they won the sweepstakes prize, have also won awards in the San Juan Bautista Art Show and other exhibitions. His work has been included in two traveling shows of the American Water Color Society, shown at the California State Fair, the Orange Show, San Bernardino Art Show, Santa Paula and San Francisco City and County annuals. He was also invited to exhibit by the Laguna Beach Art Association.

Contemporary paintings from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Zellerbach will be given a first showing outside San Francisco from September 7 to 16 at the Carmel Art Association Galleries. The exhibit as well as a champagne preview for members on September 6 is sponsored by the Peninsula chapter of American Federation of Arts.

The paintings include works by abstract expressionist and surrealist painters. The artists, from Germany, Switzerland, France, Greece, the United States and Italy were working in Rome while Mr. Zellerbach was serving as U.S. Ambassador to Italy.

The exhibit will be open to the public with no admission charge. Those interested in attending the preview must have their membership in to AFA (Box 4807, Carmel) by September 1. Telephone MA 4-2625.

Music On The Peninsula

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

The cycle of eighteen of the Mozart Sonatas for Violin and Piano, given under auspices of The Institute of Theatre Arts as more Musica Viva Concerts, started last Thursday with the second event Saturday. The idea of Axel Duwe is to give opportunity for listening to a single composer's work for better knowledge. This is often done in Europe. Mozart produced so much variety of rhythm and phrase in his joyful melodies that he is easy and inspiring to listen to. Famous as a child, yet he died a pauper at 35. It is difficult to comprehend the disregard at that time for his genius. Yet, today, much the same disregard is suffered by great talents in this country unless backed with money which creates an artificial sense of values. It is at least encouraging that many scholarships are becoming available, including the one made possible by Sallie Strauss, who lived for years in Carmel, which is to be helped by the receipts of the Mozart cycle.

David Schneider and Reina Schiro are the experienced artists from the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and while the first five sonatas were somewhat marred by the placing of the piano, which sounded harsh, the Saturday program, with rearrangements of piano and seating, allowed the artists to perform with greater eclat and more sustained development. Two Sonatas in F Major and two in C Major composed in 1778 and 1781 drew much enthusiasm from the Saturday audience of concert-goers. The Andante Theme with Variations in the F Major work of 1781 was an example of Mozart's ingenuity and variety of expression, while the beautiful, broad and perfect feeling of the melody in the Andante Sostenuto of the C Major reached the most refined and solemn depths of expression. The whole Sonata is a gem and won great enthusiasm for its rendition. Two more concerts within the week should not be missed by the public.

In an ideal setting at the home of Mrs. Henry Potter Russell in Carmel Valley, a Gala Musicale as benefit for the building fund of St. Dunstan's Church was enjoyed Sunday by many. In a salon with so high a ceiling that the acoustics were perfect, Verna Osborne, dramatic soprano, Mary Haslett, harpist, Ralph Linsley, pianist, and the Harmony Hill Quartet led by H. M. M. Nicholas with George Beck, Irmeli Rawson, and Helen Stross, gave an unusual program. Starting with a Largo by Vericini for harp and strings and Handel's Passacaglia, Haslett's strong playing had to suffer because of a broken string through changed temperature, but she pluckily overcame the situation in the subsequent Valse Caprice by Verdalle, Tedeschi's Marionetta, and the Entr'act from Donizetti's Lucia di Lammermoor.

Three delightful songs by Purcell, Music for a while, (arranged by Tippet and Bergmann) Man is for Woman Made and Sweeter than Roses (arranged by Britten), then later two French Songs, The Nightingale and the Rose, Saint Saens, Que deviennent les Roses, Paulin, and the Air and Gavotte from Massenet's Manon, afforded Osborne adequate scope for her clear soprano and dramatic powers. The Dohnanyi Quintet for Piano and string quartet showed the possibility of the Harmony Hill Quartet, enhanced with Linsley's part as the perfect ensemble player and accompanist. The whole performance sounded like a full orchestra. We hope the Harmony Hill group will give us more chamber music in the coming season.

Red Cross Invites Public To See How Blood Is Donated

The public is invited to see the Red Cross in action on Thursday from 10:00 o'clock in the morning to 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon in Sunset School Auditorium when a demonstration of blood giving will be held in order to acquaint the residents of Carmel with this necessary community effort.

To match the amount of blood required by the Carmel area, its quota for 1961 has been set at 555 pints. Despite the generosity of regular blood donors, Carmel is now overdrawn at the blood bank. Local Red Cross officials believe this is in large part owing to a lack of understanding of the blood-giving procedure by many people, who would help in this vital work if they had true information regarding it. Officials are certain that if these people could witness an actual blood giving they would volunteer in greater numbers as donors. For this reason arrangements have been made to make the procedure open to public viewers on Thursday.

MPC REGISTRATION DATES

Registration for the fall, 1961, regular-session semester at Monterey Peninsula College, now in progress, will close September 12, Ralph Smith, dean of students, announces.

Students are urged, however, to complete registration before September 7, since late registrants run "a good chance" of missing out on filled-up classes, according to Smith.

All students are required to be on campus September 7, for registration validation. This final registration step will start at 8:00 o'clock in the morning in the college library, and continue through 4:00 o'clock.

Now Jimmy knows why it's our family bank!

"It was a banner day when our son opened a savings account with money he had earned. And our Wells Fargo American Trust manager made it a really big occasion. He presented Jimmy with a passbook and welcomed him as a customer. We could see our boy felt he had a new friend as well as a new account.

"Every child should learn the value of money, and we know our friends at the bank will help Jimmy just as they've always helped us. That's why our savings and checking accounts, our safe deposit box, our home loan are all at Wells Fargo American Trust—our 'family' bank."

THE TOMB OF FATHER JUNIPERO SERRA

Here in this sunny peace he lies asleep,
Within the quiet of the ancient church,
Around the mission towers, pigeons coo
And spread their white wings in the radiant air,
Blossoms of gold and scarlet and deep blue
Make a bright tapestry before the door
And flaunt their beauty to the traveler's eye,
But here there bloomed a life more fair than they Simple and sweet and strong — close to his God
At each day's dawning — and at sunset time
His tired hands clasping still the worn old Cross
He carried with him wheresoe'er he went
And his lips murmuring a last faint prayer,
So, at the end, within his humble cell
He fell asleep! Surely, for such a one,
God was so near through all his earthly life,
That when at last the labor and the strife
Were ended, and the heavenly victory won
He heard a Voice that whispered to his heart
"Thou hast been faithful in all things! Well done!"

—GRACE BUSH

WHEN ROMANCE IS GONE

You, my dearest one, who has been so long away would be amazed at the change and upheaval of this world today. When they trample over Venus and prove drear caverns make the moon and it seems romance maybe deleted very soon. I will think of our perfect hours on the bridge, the purling stream and the strolls in the magical evening air. . . .
When I want to dream.

—LILLIAN HALL TANNER

ENDURING WORLD
(For Licia Alabanese)

Outside of these walls
The drama of mankind
Thunders on the stage of the world
And even on the vast, intangible stage
Of outer space.
Within these walls
You create a world
Out of the notes you sing,
Out of the tones of calla-lily purity.
You create a world,
Enduring, indestructible,
To which we may return at will,
sailing down the currents of memory
Along meadows, forever green.

—LUCIA TRENT

UNION SQUARE

What shall we say in spring, to the ones who sense the quickened pulse?
That cinerarias glow in Union Square, cobalt, indigo, purple of Tyre.
Irridescent breasts of pigeons flash,
rising into the sun.
Babies' great eyes follow the wings, fluttering, veering, circling.

What shall we say in spring
when, out of breath, out of space, the cable car masters the hill?
From the sea steals the odor of tarred rope on teak,
and the tang of salt spray on the tongue—in the harbor, the hoarse cry torn from the throat of fog.

What man shall live by bread alone?

Sports . . .

Jamboree date. Carmel and PG will hold a pre-season scrimmage on Friday evening, September 15, at the Pacific Grove field.

A look at the talent on the various practice fields indicates that Monterey High will be the team to beat in the A-division with King City and Carmel fighting it out for the B-league crown. In Jim Colletto, the Toreadores have the outstanding back in the league and have plenty good performers to back up the bruising Colletto. Watsonville, emerging from the throes of a five-year slump, will field another rugged aggregation which could make life tough for its opponents. Salinas and North Salinas have been weakened by the split of the student body and neither team figures as a title threat. Bill Wood's Santa Cruz Cardinals have been building for two years and they have taken on a tough practice schedule in preparation for this year's league play.

Although the defending champion Padres lost a host of good performers by graduation, the Red & Gray must be considered a title threat on the strength of the tremendous football spirit at Carmel High and sound backfield nucleus. If the Padres can shore up a couple of line positions, they will be in the thick of the title chase. Over at King City, optimism is running high for the chances of Ernie Piper's Mustangs. Blessed with 8 returning varsity lettermen and inheriting a championship junior-varsity club, Coach Piper has all the ingredients to make his single-wing attack hum. In 200-pound Jim Mankin, King City has a college-type back who is devastating on offense and is the league's top linebacker. Coach Charley Howell at Pacific Grove predicted last year that 1961 would be the time for the Breakers to emerge from the football doldrums and kick up a storm in the B-league. The Breakers are solid across the line and have Fred McGaughey carrying the mail in the backfield. If a topflight quarterback is the key man in a team's offense, the San Lorenzo Valley Cougars should be able to move the ball with reckless abandon this season. Big Steve Rodriguez, an ALL-CCAL quarterback as a junior last year, is back for another year with the Cougars and Coach Wayne Richards has equipped the strike-throwing passer with a pro-type offense to make the best use of his talents. Lack of dependable reserves and a small line will be a handicap for the ambitious Cougars. Gilroy, Gonzales, Hollister and Live Oak were in the second division last season and all were hard hit by graduation. However, Live Oak started to sprout muscles during the tailend of the 1960 season and Coach Ami Leso may have the darkhorse of the circuit.

Cadet John S. Wilkin, son of Mrs. Angie Wilkin of Carmel Highlands, has successfully completed seven weeks of basic cadet training at the United States Air Force Academy near Colorado Springs.

The Class of 1965, of which he is a member, was formally accepted into the Cadet Wing at a parade and ceremony on August 17 and began their academic training with the rest of the 2,200 man Cadet Wing on August 21.

John graduated from Carmel High School in June. During his senior year he was selected an All-American high school football player.

OFFICER BOYLE LANDS A WHOPPER

Carmel police officer, Walter P. Boyle, landed the second largest fish in the Monterey Peninsula Deep Sea Derby last week. His catch, a salmon weighing 27 pounds, 14 and one-half ounces.

JANE ALBERT NATIONAL CHAMPION

Jane Albert, back home in Pebble Beach with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Albert, has a fine set of trophies, garnered in Eastern tournaments this past month, to survey before she goes back to junior year studies at Santa Catalina School for Girls.

She is the 15-years-old and under Girls United States Tennis Champion; won, teamed with Jean Danilovitch of Jackson, the national doubles title in the same class; also the Kentucky State doubles title, and the Westerns in Ohio; and lastly, playing with Jean Inez of Southern California, the International Junior Chamber of Commerce championship in Lansing, Michigan.

Book Review . . .

By Paul Spreinger

If you are in favor of abolishing capital punishment, you are probably going to find Ninth Life (Putnam $4.95) an informative and interesting collection of facts concerning the renowned Chessman struggle.

With an incipiently unbiased mind, William R. Woodfield began looking into the Caryl Chessman case about two months before the execution. Having found some fresh facts which were highly revealing, he called in Milton Machlin of Argosy. Together, the two men turned over reams of facts and unearthed information that will startle many, disgust some, and provide ammunition for those who would abolish capital punishment.

Exhibiting the perspicuity of two experienced men in the literary field, the authors deliver a comprehensive book, which includes all of the legal points involved in Chessman's twelve-year battle for life. The book includes 16 pages of photographs.

Basically, the book is a chronological review of Chessman's life. It takes the reader through Chessman's youth, and dwells on those environmental factors which contributed to his personality and character. It describes the crimes committed by the Red Light Bandit, along with other crimes which Chessman (admittedly) committed. Then follow the facts concerning his apprehension, and the ensuing legal war. Finally, it gives the details of hs death.

Most important with any treatise such as this is: how factual is the report? In this particular case it is impossible to say, for most of Chessman's battle was based on the fact that the court transcript was made by a sick man, who died shortly after the trial, before he had time to convert his scribbled Pitman shorthand into a legible transcript. Although Chessman failed to prove it to a court, most readers of Ninth Life will be convinced that it would have been absolutely impossible for anyone to transcribe the notes with any degree of accuracy. In addition to the fact that the court transcript was incomplete, many of the police records were lost or inaccessibly filed Thus the task of writing what is definitely a factual report was indeed a difficult one.

The authors present many convincing arguments on Chessman's behalf. They maintain that Chessman shouldn't have, and wouldn't have died had it not been for the combination of his arrogance, a landslide of hard luck, and the aggressiveness of the state. However, the writing is slanted and the authors make Chessman out to be a martyr and thus attempt to excite sympathy and indignation in the reading public.

Nancy Caravan's First Concert Is Delight To Audience

By Dudley Nix

Nancy Caravan, nine-year-old pianist, amazed and delighted an audience of adults and children in her first concert, Thursday afternoon, in the studio-home of her teacher, Mary Lindsay-Oliver, at Thirteenth Avenue and San Carlos Street.

Nancy displayed a command of the piano and a warm feeling for music that was very moving to all those present. Her technique was even and sure for one so young.

Her program included Gondola Song and Funeral March, Mendelssohn; Elegy, Massenet; Rondo from Beethoven's Sonata Pathetique; and Prelude in C, Bach.

Refreshments were served in the patio to the guests following the concert by Miss Lindsay-Oliver's other students.

Private George Daniel Marshall III is seen, above, at the console of an organ at Fort Ord. He is the son of George D. Marshall Jr. of Pebble Beach and a Carmel High School graduate.

Dan also attended Yale University. Following graduation from Yale, he obtained a master's degree in sacred music at Union Theological College in New York City. He has played concerts of religious music in New York City, New Haven, Connecticut, Seattle, Washington and Carmel. During his high school years he was a pupil of Robert Forbes and substitute organist at All Saints' Episcopal Church.

Dan is now a basic trainee with Fort Ord's 1st Brigade and is permanently on the Peninsula again for the first time in six years.

Tobacco Road Played With Humor And Sympathy At Forest Theater

BY VIRGINIA SHAW

Preceded by provocative publicity, Tobacco Road opened last weekend at the Forest Theater, and the consensus appeared to be that the play was, on the whole, good fun.

Producers David Walton, Ron Bostwick and Russ Eddy billed Tobacco Road as "an American folk comedy," and so it is—no lustier than many old folksongs currently in vogue.

The wooded backdrop of the Forest Theater merges with Edmar Boston's naturalistic set depicting a wretched shack and farmyard in the Georgia backwoods. Against this background of grinding poverty, the Lesters carry on their casually concupiscent affairs — some hilarious, some tragic. There's the entrapment into matrimony of the boobyish son, Dude, by a free-wheeling lady preacher; the frustration of harelipped Ellie Mae, the rebellion of her beautiful sister, Pearl, the bickering of Jeeter and his shrivelled-up wife, Ada.

Russ Eddy in his portrayal of Jeeter manages to create a genuine character, not a caricature, and enlists understanding and tolerance along with amusement and contempt. The highstrung actress called Hanna gives a vigorous, vinegary performance as the disenchanted Ada; her death scene is the play's one truly shocking moment—coming perilously close to the permissible limits of theatrical horror. Anita Tonn is admirable as the brisk, buxom, man-hungry evangelist, Sister Bessie. Shirley Spangler throws herself into the thankless role of Ellie Mae with manic abandon, while a golden-haired beauty named Nancy Hoss lights up the stage as the mutely unhappy Pearl. The picture of shambling decrepitude, Grandma Lester, is projected by a newcomer rejoicing in the name of Pleasant FitzPatrick: her performance is the more remarkable in that Miss FitzPatrick, we understand, is bowed by the weight of scarce 19 years. The role of Lov Bensey, dense but devoted husband of Pearl, is played with taciturn authority by Jerry Brooks.

We reserve for last the performance of Dave Conley as sixteen-year-old Dude Lester. The whole characterization, from peevish whine to flapping, sulky slouch, is just about perfect, and he delivers some of the play's rawest, funniest lines with wonderful skill.

Entrepreneur David Walton appears briefly as the kindly but helpless landlord, Captain Tim (Walter Lincoln is listed in the program for the role). Otto De Hoag plays the banker whose firm has taken over the farm, and Jonathan Carroll has a bit as a neighboring sharecropper.

Many of these players are new to the local stage, but they are most welcome: a gifted group.

Apart from Bostwisk's knowing direction and Boston's excellently seedy set, the production benefits from the well-conceived costuming and lighting of Mary Murphy. Sound and music, equally well handled, are the charge of David Bennett; Peggy Miller is stage manager, Toby Brooks assistant producer, and Jerry Zellhoefer assistant stage manager.

Tobacco Road isn't everybody's taste in "Theatre", but for those interested in sampling a raw brew somewhat mellowed by age, it plays tonight through September 9 at 8:30 o'clock in the Forest Theater.

Construction For Hacienda Carmel Is Now Under Way

Ground has been broken and construction is now under way at Hacienda Carmel Retirement Community in the Carmel Valley. Alcan Pacific Company of Sacramento is general contractor and developer of the project.

The first stage of development will consist of 125 luxury units, community center, recreation building, dining room, visitors' guest house, swimming pool, infirmary, and chapel. The initial stage will be completed by March 1962, according to Lester C. Burdett, Jr., vice president and general manager of the Retirement Homes Division of Alcan Pacific Company.

A completely furnished, decorated and landscaped model of Casa Sereno is open every day for inspection from 10:00 to 5:00 o'clock.

The Hacienda Carmel development is situated along the Carmel River on the south side of Carmel Valley Road, one and one half miles east of Highway One.

Letter To The Editor...

355 E. 20th So.
Upland, California
August 28, 1961

Editor, Carmel Newspaper:

Carmel is truly a lovely spot in which to live or vacation, and since we have friends here, we recently spent two days visiting and shopping.

But may I suggest to your traffic department that they mark no parking areas as such before issuing tickets to out of town visitors for parking violations. Conceivably local residents might know parking in certain areas is forbidden, through the grape vine, or reading your paper; but how can an out of town driver know?

I deeply resent forfeiting the $2.00 bail I had to pay but naturally it is impossible for me to appear in court.

Sincerely,
Mrs. J. David Price

1839—California vaqueros set the pattern for cowboys to follow

GOLDEN MOMENTS

In California history—long before cowboy was a household word, colorful vaqueros were herding cattle on our plains.

In California life—today, an important word in many of our households is beer, the beverage of moderation. Beer means enjoyment . . . it stands for prosperity, too. Last year, 7,200 Californians earned a total of $34.5 million in the Brewing Industry—another reason why beer means better living for all in the "Golden State."

"Cy" Johnson To Manage Gorey Co. Branch In Monterey

Walter C. Gorey Co. of San Francisco has opened a Monterey office in the new Credit Bureau Building at 555 Abrego Street, under the management of Cyrus B. Johnson.

Mr. Gorey, who is a nationally known authority on insurance stocks, is one of many Easterners who years ago decided living in California, and in Carmel in particular, was ideal for his wife and three children.

The problem was: How do you operate a very active stock trading firm in San Francisco and still live in Carmel?

He solves it by commuting twice weekly by air. He spends four days and three nights a week in San Francisco, and three days and four nights in Carmel.

For Cyrus Johnson, the move to Monterey is actually a homecoming. He lived in Carmel many years while managing branch offices of other securities firms. His wife, Elizabeth, is a native daughter. For the past eight years he has been with Gorey Co. in San Francisco.

"My daughter Sarah loves horses," Mr. Johnson said. "Now she can have a mount of her own."

According to Mr. Johnson, the Monterey office makes good sense because many clients of Walter C. Gorey Co. live on the Peninsula. The office makes it convenient to follow their insurance stock investments.

Insurance stocks have performed outstandingly in the past decade, Mr. Johnson said. "I am confident the new office will prosper," he said.

The Monterey Peninsula has another lure for Johnson—the sea. In his youth he was a sailing master, and he retains his love of the sea.

Paul Colman

Paul Colman, 54, died on Sunday, presumably of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, in his home at Casanova Street and Eighth Avenue. He had lived in Carmel since 1950 and was the proprietor of Paul Colman Associates Carpet Sales and Service.

Mr. Colman was born in Multnomah County, Oregon, on February 19, 1907. He repeatedly had been in ill health and had recently returned from the hospital.

Since moving here, he was associated with amateur theatrical groups both as an actor and a member of production staffs. He had appeared in various roles on the stages of the Circle and Studio theatres in Carmel and with the Wharf Theatre in Monterey, also helped remodel the present Wharf Theatre premises. In addition he helped produce plays at Santa Catalina School for Girls.

Survivors are his wife, Margaret Reynolds Colman; a daughter, Betty Colman; two sons, Jerry and Norman Colman; and a granddaughter, Deborah Lyn Colman.

Private funeral services were held on Monday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove. Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Friends wishing to make contributions in memory of Mr. Colman may do so in the form of donations to the American Civil Liberties Union, 503 Market Street, San Francisco.

Violinist, Soprano, Dancers For Last Of "Sunday Afternoons"

The last of this summer's Carmel Art Commission's "afternoons" will be held Sunday in the Forest Theater, starting at 2:00 o'clock.

The art commission will present Mrs. Juanita Mooney, concert violinist from San Diego, who will be accompanied by Richard Brunelle, of San Francisco. Mrs. Mooney, a graduate of the Eastman School of Music, is a soloist with the San Diego Symphony.

The students of Joann Adair School of Dance Arts in Salinas will perform in a ballet, and songs by Noram Wiley, Salinas, lyric soprano, complete the program.

Before the performance (gates open at 1:30) and during the intermissions, the audience may watch Marian Thomas display her skill at the potters wheel and Robert Thomas demonstrate enamel work in silver.

Refreshments are available at the booth manned by Carmel Youth Center members.

Mrs. Sherman

Mrs. Josephine Frances Sherman died on August 24 in a local hospital following an extended illness. She was the proprietor of an interior decorating shop on Dolores Street below Seventh Avenue.

Mrs. Sherman was born on July 26, 1910, in Kansas City, Missouri. An interior decorator for 30 years, she established her local business after moving to Carmel a year ago with her husband, Robert H. Sherman, a landscape architect. Their home was at Santa Fe Street and Fourth Avenue.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Sherman is survived by a son, Barry L. Sherman of Carmel; two sisters and a brother.

Private funeral services were held on Saturday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea, with Dr. Joseph M. Ewing of the Carmel Presbyterian Church officiating.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Strong assurance of man's God-given right to conquer every form of evil will be given Sunday in Christian Science church services.

Paul's striking words to the Romans (8) are included in the Bible readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Man": "Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? . . . Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (pp. 303, 304):

"Spiritual man is the image or idea of God, an idea which cannot be lost nor separated from its divine Principle. When the evidence before the material senses yielded to spiritual sense, the apostle declared that nothing could alienate him from God, from the swet sense and presence of Life and Truth."

Scots Wha' Hae

Kilts swinging, plaids billowing, the Stuart Highlanders Bagpipe Band skirled and drummed Saturday evening along Isabella Street on Carmel Point led by Mayor Frank Putnam and Pipe Major John Biggar carrying flaming torches. Before the march, 80 guests at a party arranged by the Carmel Arts Commission danced reels to the music of the pipes, or listened with varying emotions to stirring strains of Scottish airs.

The Stuart Highlanders came to Carmel to play for the Forest Theater Sunday program, at no fee. Arts Commissioner Glenn Kearns and City Clerk Larry Rose planned the cooperative dinner party for the 15 members of the band. Guests were members of the city council, arts, forest and recreation commissions, the city hall administrative staff, and heads of all city departments. Band members were overnight guests of Carmelites. Their hosts and hostesses also came to the party. Everyone brought a contribution for the festive tables set out in the patio of Mrs. Lucille Ray and presided over by Mrs. William Arley Smith and Miss Hazel McLellan.

Pipers and drummers, also their ladies, declared never before had they experienced hospitality such as they were extended during their Carmel visit. Those who came with pipe and drum were Geoffrey Baldwin, Dave Blue, George Brooke, Tony Ciufo, Charles Duke, Donald Fiddes, Thomas Gleason, Edward Grant, Patrick Grant, Thomas Kinnear, Robert Laurie, Peter Oakander, Wes Olson, Malcolm Post and George Tartarian, all young San Francisco businessmen who have piped or drummed for years, organized as a band two years ago.

Mrs. Young's Sons Visit Her

Mrs. Margaret Young had a visit from her oldest son, John, his wife, Mary Jo, and their 16-months-old daughter, Jennie, recently. A former paratrooper with the 187th Airborne Division in Korea, John now lives in San Diego but is making plans to move to Carmel.

Mrs. Young's second son, Sergeant Charles Joseph Young, also recently brought his wife, Louise, and their daughter, Jody, to Carmel for a visit prior to being transferred from March Air Force Base to nuclear weapons duty in Germany. His wife and child will join him abroad later.

Mrs. Young is looking forward to a visit soon from her youngest son, Edward William, who is a communications engineer with the Strategic Air Command. He is on worldwide duty and can only come to Carmel for a few hours when he returns to the Vandenburg base in Southern California at infrequent intervals.

Campbells Back From Wedding

Judge and Mrs. Gordon Campbell with their daughters, Lynne, Julie and Polly, left in mid-August for Oregon to attend the marriage of Linda Baker Reid to Dr. Platon Alexander Brown of Richmond, Virginia. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Reid of Grants Pass. Mrs. Reid, the former Lillian Dale, is Mrs. Campbell's sister. Also at the wedding were another aunt of the bride, Miss Marjorie Dale of Carmel, and the bride's uncle, Clifford Dale of Salinas, and Mrs. Dale.

Lynne and Julie Campbell were bridesmaids for their cousin and Polly Campbell was in charge of the guest book at the wedding reception.

On the way home, the Campbell's vacationed at Lake Tahoe, then stopped in San Francisco to leave Lynne at St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing to begin three years' training.

Richard Lofton Paints In South

Richard Lofton came home to Carmel Monday evening after two months in the South where he painted a dozen commissioned portraits including one of Dr. Hudson Strode which will be presented to the University of Alabama.

Mr. Lofton with his younger daughter, Melissa, left Carmel at the end of June for Birmingham, Alabama, where they stayed with a sister of Mr. Lofton while he filled several portrait commissions. Following this they visited relatives in Garden City Beach, Beaufort and Charleston County, South Carolina, representing six generations of the Lofton family, then traveled to Florida.

Mrs. Lofton flew from Carmel to Atlanta, Georgia, at the end of July, met Melissa and her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Schallert, then with the family of her brother, Paul Schallert, Jr., they all drove to the mountains of South Carolina, thence for a visit in Altamonte Springs, Florida, at Dr. and Mrs. Schallert's home.

In the meantime, Richard Lofton returned to Alabama to paint the portrait of Dr. Hudson Strode, writer, world traveler and professor of English at the University of Alabama, whose creative writing classes have gained international renown as famous Southern writers have been his students. While Mr. Lofton painted the portrait, Dr. Strode was completing for publication the third volume of his definitive biography of Jefferson Davis. The first two volumes have already been published. His portrait by Richard Lofton will be presented to the University of Alabama.

This commission completed, Mrs. Lofton and Melissa met Mr. Lofton in Birmingham and they drove home to Carmel.

BUSY WEEK FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT

Members of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department answered five fire calls this week; two for the Red Cross ambulance.

The fire calls were minor, involving burning potholders, a dust mop and paper. Leaking gasoline and a smoke smell also called out firemen.

The first ambulance call was on Monday, 12:45 o'clock in the afternoon, to the scene of a headon collision on Highway One two miles south of Carmel. Volunteer firemen took two critically injured young women, Doris Kerbis of San Mateo and Barbara A. Corey of Chicago to the Peninsula Community Hospital. They had been thrown through the windshield of the foreign car in which they were riding and partially through the windshield of another car belonging to Robert E. Stine of Ontario. Other occupants of this car were Stine's wife and daughter, Nancy. He and his daughter were taken to the hospital in another ambulance.

Tuesday, 2:43 o'clock in the afternoon, the ambulance took Mrs. Fern Much, Monte Verde Street and Fifth Avenue, to the hospital after she fell on Dolores Street.

The fire calls were: Thursday, 3:55 o'clock, a car was leaking gasoline and firemen hosed the gas off the street; Friday, 2:55 in the afternoon, five pieces of equipment and 16 men extinguished burning potholders on a range in the house occupied by Robert Ransohoff at Fifth and Carpenter; Monday, six pieces of equipment and 19 men went to the home of Mrs. Allen Williams, Santa Fe and Eighth, where a dust mop hanging on a door had ignited. The consequent smoke caused neighbors to send in the alarm.

The same afternoon, 2:46 o'clock, firemen investigated a smell of smoke at the I. Magnin Company store. A check by the fire chief was made two hours later. On neither occasion could firemen find any fire or any smoke smell.

Tuesday, answering a general alarm to Hofsas House, firemen found burning paper had fallen out of an incinerator and scorched a bench in the boiler room.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

One of the interesting things about books on pets are the pictures of prize winners of days gone by or in foreign countries today. According to The Complete Poodle, in 1820, dogs in France were clipped while lounging over the laps of the operators. Comfortable but messy. The new third edition of this valuable book is now ready for circulation. So complete is it that it even gives directions for conduct in the show ring.

Sylvia Porter, whose syndicated column appears on the financial page of 331 daily newspapers, has a new book entitled How to Get More for Your Money. The title itself shows you how worthy the book is.

Ever since We Took to the Woods was a best seller, anyone with a typewriter who moved to the country, decided to write a book about it, and did so. The latest is Two Against the North by Ada Sharples. The locale is Alaska, The characters are Ada and Jack Sharples, and all the wild animals in that aching wilderness.

John Wilhelm has done several travel books, the guide book sort of thing, and he now has one entitled Guide to the Caribbean Islands. It should be especially helpful in choosing hotels and in planning for delectable dining in the various towns and cities.

Dr. Joseph Peck has published two successful books. One was called All About Men and the other What Next, Dr. Peck? Comes now Life With Women and How to Survive It. After many years as a general practitioner, the doctor retired to give all his time to writing. He was probably a good doctor. He is an interesting writer. And naturally enough, he knows a lot about women.

King of the Mountain Men, is the life of Jim Bridger and was written by Gene Caesar. They say that at the age of 18 Jim Bridger took to the wilderness and didn't see a town again for 17 years. But even in the wilderness, life was eventful and complete. This book should be especially interesting to readers of The Big Sky and other books about the Mountain Men.

Once upon a time a man named DuPlessis was hired to track down smugglers who were slipping out of the African diamond mines with over 30 million dollars worth of diamonds every year. This is not a suspense plot, this is for real. The book about his adventures is called Diamonds Are Dangerous and it was written by DuPlessis himself. As exciting as fiction and all true.

The fire still burns in the library fireplace every evening and these foggy nights it's sort of comforting. Come in for a book, a magazine, or an hour of quiet browsing.

OFFICERS ASS'N MEETING

The monthly meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the US Warrant Officers Association will be held at 8:00 o'clock tomorrow evening in building 2841 at Fort Ord. All Warrant Officers from all Services, active, reserve and retired are invited to attend. It is not necessary to be a member to attend.

Artist Hamlin Does 15th Century Surrealism In Manner Of Bosch

studied in Europe were the German Durer and the Renaissance's Mantegna. And of course Bosch. Roy says a show of the 15th Century Flemish master's work in Paris in the spring of 1949 gave him a whole new outlook on art and life.

Though his work goes far beyond what is generally considered "illustrative," Roy has worked much in black and white. The Hamlin work best remembered by friends and by art patrons who have attended his past shows in the De Young Museum of San Francisco and here at the Carmel Valley Art Center is a group of pen-and-ink drawings inspired by French poet Baudelaire's Les Fleurs du Mal. Grotesque, macabre, poetic, intense, they are the kind of thing that leaves the viewer permanently changed after the viewing.

Another phase of Artist Hamlin's personality allows him to paint traditional-style portraits with a sure hand. Most recent commissions have included a period-dress portrait now hanging at Will's Fargo restaurant in Carmel Valley.

Sharing the Hamlin home with Roy are his wife Hellen, also of French descent and also a designer and decorator, their daughter Lysa and son "Beau" (Roy Jr.).

A Hamlin-designed interior, on which both Hellen and Roy might work, would probably feature marble furniture tops, brass bathtubs and staircases of stone and spiral iron. On the other hand, the Hamlins can confine their work to another's taste, reproducing with accuracy born of careful study a design from any period, including contemporary times. "We design anything," Roy explains.

This economy of words is a Hamlin characteristic. Roy is a spare man in several ways, lean and muscular in physical appearance, he is laconic in speech without seeming unfriendly. The lack of effusion lends him a recommendation of the kind of honesty too rare in human beings. His speaking is evidently done with a brush, or a pen, or a mind that conceives a rare vision. And this is the way it should be with artists.

One of the pen sketches Roy Hamlin made to illustrate Beaudelaire's Flowers of Evil. The self-portrait on Page One he made from a bust of himself done by a sculptor friend.

Ondrejka Resigns To Accept Post With Buffalo Philharmonic

his contract with the local symphony. In so doing Eugene Harrah, president of the Association, announced that Mr. Ondrejka's resignation would not affect the orchestra's 1961-62 season which will begin as scheduled October 16-17. Several qualified candidates for the conductorship are under consideration. Plans for the change over in leadership have been made so that the symphony will be fully prepared to begin its season on the announced date.

Conductor Ondrejka will assume his duties with the Buffalo Philharmonic at the end of September.

The Monterey County Symphony has also been the proving ground for two other young conductors, Earl Bernard Murray, and Gregory Millar. Murray is conductor of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra, while Millar has been an assistant conductor with the New York Philharmonic for the past season. To maintain its tradition of attracting musicians of exceptional ability, the Symphony Association board is making a careful study of each candidate for the conducting post. Before making a final selection, the group will take into consideration the recommendations of a number of leading musical figures including Dr. Richard Lert, Conductor of the Pasadena Symphony and Artistic Director of the American Symphony Orchestra League Institute for Conductors, Musicians and Composers; and Mrs. Helen Thompson, executive secretary of the American Symphony Orchestra League.

C-1-L zones in the ordinance; change in the planning commission's procedure in handling flood lighting requests, and an appeal from the planning commission's denial for a directional sign.

September 12 has been set for a public hearing on the Coast Highway Master Plan before the county planning commission in Salinas. The plan would not prohibit home construction on the coast side of the road, but offers incentives for property owners to build on the eastern side. Skidmore, Owings and Merrill, working with property owners, are its author. Some opposition is developing in the Big Sur, and a meeting of property owners who oppose it is to be held tonight at the grange.

Carmel Citizens' Committee, in a letter to the city council, this week, is making another try for ordinance control of size of business buildings. For several years, the citizens' committee has offered to the planning commission various devices for limiting building size. The planning commission has studied the proposals but has not found them practical or desirable. Now comes this Don Quixote attack on the city council, which is much less likely to be sympathetic to such suggestions than the planning commission.

The city ordinance always has limited height of buildings, and the new zoning code requires specified amount of open space and setback which increases in amount with the extent of the frontage. Within limits, the planning commission may require more setback. And it has design control. With these powers, the planning commission is satisfied that it can prevent the appearance of bigness along the frontages. Neither they nor the council appear to be opposed to bigness itself.

Pine Cone has always pitched for pines. The bigger the building, the more need for tall pine trees which break up frontages, dwarf height, and give a tucked in, snuggled down look even to a monster motel.

Early morning call to city hall.

"Art Plaxton, speaking."

"How are you, Art?"

"Do you really want to know?"

Our assistant city clerk, an unfailingly cheerful person, insists he is uncheerful early in the morning, and he hates people who are cheerful early in the morning because such behavior is unnatural. He elaborated: "My wife and I have an agreement not to say a thing to each other before breakfast unless it's something mean."
